MONEY, STOCKS AND BONDS. Interest Rates Easy-Dull and Comparatively

Featureless Trading. NEW YORK, Oct. 19.-Money on call was easy, with no loans, closing offered at 4 per Prime mercantile paper 51227 per cent. Sterling exchange quiet and heavy at $4.8134 for sixty-day bills and $4.8512 for demand.

The total sales of stocks to-day were 92,-635 shares, including the following: Atchison, 7,000; Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, 3,931; Erie, 1,500; Missouri Pacific, 5,414; Northern Pacific preferred, 9,900; Reading, 11,800; Richmond & West Point, 2,860; St. Paul. 11,880; Union Pacific, 3,285.

The stock market was quiet to-day, but feverish and irregular, with considerable weakness in the coal stocks and grangers, while the trusts and the rest of the regular while the trusts and the rest of the regular list were, in the main, firm to strong. The opening was rather heavy, except for Cotton Oil, which was up 78 per cent., and large purchases by a certain broker aided in carrying the price of that stock up 128 per cent. further. The others followed slowly, but realizing by the traders at the top figures induced some hammering by the "bears," and the advances in the general list were all wiped out, with something in addition before the close of the first hour. Jersey Central and Rock Island were specially weak at this juncture; and the former dropped to 12212, against 12434 last evening, and never recovered the decline. Rock Island lost 114, to 9634. The pressure was then removed and prices again rallied, and when the bank statement was issued showing an bank statement was issued showing an increase in the surplus reserve, which again ought it up above the legal requirements the upward movement became accelerated There was too little time left to establish any marked advances, and the closing figures were generally close to those of the opening. Among the specialties Pullman gave way readily and scored a loss of 212 per cent., but the market was devoid of other special features. Cotton Oil is up 2 per cent. to-night and Jersey Central is down a like amount, but the other changes are for slight fractions only, with the exception of Pullman. The railroad bonds market was dull again, sales only reaching $449,000, with stagnation as the only feature. Sales of railroad bonds for the week were $4,357,-000, against $4,068,000 last week. But for the week the majority of stocks are lower. Governments were dull and steady. States were entirely neglected. Closing

TRADING AT CHICAGO.

The Ups and Downs of the Market, with th Range in Prices of Leading Articles. CHICAGO, Oct. 19.-Trading in wheat was quite heavy, to-day, at a lower range of prices. Local operators were on the selling side at the opening, and a great deal of long wheat came on the market. "Shorts" covered freely, and there was a great deal done in the way of evening up trades. Some local operators, formerly on the bull side, were prominently identified on the selling side. Opinions differ greatly as to the future course of the market. Some houses doing a foreign business are discouraging selling for the present. A feature of the market was a fight between the bull and bear interests around 81c for December and 834c for May. Large buying orders were on the market at these prices, and, although touching the former price several times. but few of the buying orders could be executed. The market opened weak and 38@ 12c lower, declined 38@ 12c more, held firmly at the decline, and closed steady and about 34c lower than yesterday. A fair trade was transacted in corn. The feeling was easy early, but later became more steady. Offerings were fairly liberal, while the demand was confined mainly to "shorts." The market opened a shade under yesterday's closing prices, was easy for a time, and sold oil slightly, ruling steady, and closed a shade over yesterday. Oats were active but weaker and lower, due to good receipts, the weakness and decline in wheat and selling by "longs." There was increased offerings and no demand of consequence, except that from shorts. Prices receded 18214c. and the market closed quiet and steady. In pork less activity was manifested and the feeling slightly easier. Prices averaged 219@5c lower, and the market closed quiet. In lard a firmer feeling was manifested, and trading was fairly active. Prices ruled .0212@.05c higher, and the market closed steady at outside figures. Trading in ribs was moderate. Prices ruled about .0212@.05c lower. Leading futures ranged as follows:

INDIANAPOLIS MARKETS.

Week in Which Trade Was Disappointing, with a Downward Tendency in Prices.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 19.

In most departments the trade of the week closing to-day fell below the expectations of the early part of the week. More fall-like weather would doubtless improve trade. The dry goods men and the boot and shoe men all speak of trade as being rather quiet for the middle of October, yet in comparison with that of the corresponding period last year the exhibit is not so unfavorable. To insure a good boot and shoe trade, cold, raw, rainy weather in the fall is needed. Grocers are having a fair trade. The week closes with the coffee market East unsettled. Holders of fine goods, however, are disposed to think well of the future of coffees. Molasses as a rule is held about steady, but quite an increase of demand would be required to make the market active. Syrups, however, have continued to sell as rapidly as they could be turned out, with more of them wanted. Rice has secured a more liberal demand and advanced in cost for both domestic and foreign. Spices somewhat irregular, with sales of bulk lots confined principally to afloats. Teas held steadily, but the deal a trifle disappointing. Sugars continued on the downward incline without drawing out much of a demand for either raws or refined goods, and the general feeling over the situation is tame. In the provision market there has been a good deal of activity the past week in a jobbing way. Prices rule a shade firmer than a week ago. The wool market rules strong on reports from the East. But little stock is held in this section at the present time, not much more than the home mills will need. The produce markets were rather quiet this week, retail grocers buying only to meet Commercial Metropolis.

The Thanksgiving Bird of Georgia. Augusta Chronicle.

The opossum is here. As the turkey is the thanksgiving bird in wealthy New England, so the marsupial is its prototype in Georgia. The 'possum, as we have been accustomed to call him familiarly, is the child of nature. He has the freedom of the woods. He is no pampered barn-yard pet, fattened for occasion. Who hungers for him must hunt him with an ax and hound him must hunt him with an ax, and hound and flambeau—meet him on his own ground in night time. He never goes abroad until the frost purples the persimmon's face. He roasts to the queen's taste, and when he comes on table, brown in a nest of warm potatoes, with an apple in his mouth, he makes a dish fit to lay before the King. The 'possum is the Thanksgiving "bird" for Georgia. for Georgia.

AMAZONS OF SIAM.

A Royal Body Guard of 400 Athletic and Beautiful Women. New York Sun.

The King of Siam formerly had a real Amazonian guard of 400 members. This guard consisted of the most beautiful and the strongest young women in his kingdom.
Every recruit had to be at least thirteen years old, and of almost perfect physical development. After serving twelve years she was retired to the reserve corps. An active guardswoman was a personal life guard of his Siamese Majesty. A reserve guardswoman, however, had merely the duty of watching the royal palaces and the Crown estates. Every recruit, before she was admitted to the Amazonian guard, took the oath of chastity, for the King of Siam allowed only women of the strictest virtue in his personal military service. The Amazonian corps were most elaborate uniforms.
A fine white, gold-embroidered woolen skirt hung down to the knees. Over this each were a light coat of mail. The arms were bare. The head was covered with a golden helmet. At court feasts and on national holidays the Amazons carried only lances in their right hands. They handled these lances with all the expertness of drum-majors, twirling, twisting and tossing them as they marched and counter-marched before their critical sovereign. Generally, however, the Amazons carried muskets. The corps consisted of four companies of one hundred Amazons each, commanded by female captains. Immediately after the death of an Amazon commander ths king critically reviewed the leaderless division, and after three days thought over the subject promoted the most accomplished Amazon in the rank and file to the captaincy. Every member of the corps was served both at home and abroad by five negresses. The corps held dress parade on the parade grounds near the capitol twice every week, and exercised daily with the lance, the pistol, the masket, and the rifle. The discipline of the corps was unexceptionable. The necessity of punishing a member rarely occurred oftener than once a year. Duels, however, were frequent among the Amazons. Before a duel could be fought the permission to fight it had to be obtained from the commander-in-chief. Swords were usually chosen as the weapons, and the meeting took place in the presence of the whole campany to which the challenger belonged. An Amazon who fell in a duel was buried with extraordinary pomp, and the priest in his funeral oration usually recommended her to a high place in heaven, in consideration of her bravery on the field of honor. The victorious duelist was congratulated by her comrades. She was

That Had Suddenly Become Valuable. Minneapolis Tribune. I heard a very clever story on a prominent broker a few days ago-a man whose name I am not at liberty to discuss, though I may say that he is well known as a picture buyer. This broker had some mining stock which he had long regarded as worthless, and one day when he found an opportunity to get rid of it at a pretty fair consideration he was very happy. That very night, however, after he went home he received a telegram announcing that this mine, of which he had sold the stock, had developed a lead of extraordinary richness. An hour afterward the purchaser of the stock received a telegram from the broker, who desired to see him immediately upon a subject of great importance. The buyer called, and was told by the servant that the broker was very ill and could not be

"But I must see him; I have been sent for by him not half an hour ago.' The servant went up-stairs and brought back word that the visitor might go up.

The broker was in bed, moaning with pain. The lights were turned low. When the visitor entered the broker began: "My dear Jones, I have had to-day another of the dreadful attacks I am subject to, and I am afraid this last one is going to 'do me up.' I sent for you to confess that I have taken advantage of you in a business transaction, and I want to make reparation before I die. That mining stock that I sold you to-day was really worthless, and it troubles me that I took advantage of you."

"Oh, nonsense, that is all right. I didn't pay you much for it and I can easily sell.it to somebody else."

"No, that will not do. I want to take it back and pay you back your money. I can't rest until I have made this right." "Oh, well, if you feel that way, of course I will give you it back."

"Very well, and while I am able to sign a check I will prepare one, and, in the mean-while, you can bring back the stock." The visitor went home got the stock, and returning it, received the check which the now utterly exhausted broker had filled out for him. He went, away musing upon the vicissitudes of human life and filled the vicissitudes of human life and filled with profound sympathy for the sorrowing family of the rapidly-sinking broker.

And the broker? The moment his customer was out of the house he leaped out of bed and gleefully danced around the room in a manner that would have aroused the envy of Carmencita could he have seen it. But the customer, next day, when he learned of the rise in the value of the stock, metaphorically kicked himself for his stupidity in being taken in by a broker's "conscience."

Books and Book-Readers.

Walter Savage Landor once told a friend that after he had read a book, he gave it away on principle—"for if I know I am to put it on my shelf to refer to, I shall not fix it in my memory; but if I know while I am reading it that, as soon as it is read, it will be taken away, I am sure to keep all that I want." In his old age, Landor was furious if he did not remember at once any passage of a book, or any name or date, and would immediately begin to abuse himself, crying out in his sharp, high voice, "God bless my soul! I am losing my mind; I am getting old;" and then the name, or date, or passage, would come in the midst of his vituperation of himself, and he would calmly go on as if nothing had happened.

A Manual Training Experiment. Philadelphia Press.

Cooking schools were begun yesterday in the grammar schools, and while progress will be slower in cooking than in sewing, it will not be long before Philadelphia will have nearly 80,000 girls under training in cooking, just as the city now has nearly this number learning sewing. No more useful step has, we believe, ever been taken by the city in its education system, and as Philadelphia was earlier in the field in the teaching of cooking than any other city, it ought to be possible to secure the teachers for this important work in this city.

HERBERT L. BROWN.

GREENCASTLE, Ind., Oct. 9. Dr. Gun Wa-Dear Sir: Inclosed please find $5 for another three weeks' treatment of your consumption remedy. I have used your remedy now nine weeks to-day, and I have changed so my friends hardly knew me. My night sweats have entirely stopped. and my cough has almost entirely left me. I have gained eighteen pounds since I commenced your treatment, and my appetite is appalling. I now know your treatment will cure me. I send you my picture, which I had taken yesterday, that you may see what a wonderful change your medicines have wrought in me. Please send the medicine by mail, and send me some more of your circulars, and I will band them to sufferers, as I did the others you sent me. Very sincerely yours,
